BOB OSTERTAG

SPIRAL

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 1, 8 PM • $12 ($6) • AUDITORIUM

This multimedia tour-de-force by composer Bob Ostertag brings its audience into the AIDS epidemic at its most personal and immediate level—one man's spiral into death. For his first work with full theatrical staging, Ostertag has brought together a stellar group of collaborators. The libretto is by artist-author David Wojnarowicz and the score for voice and glass instruments was crafted by instrument-builder Oliver DiCicco. Amplified plate-glass projection sheets were created for Spiral by scratch-animation master Pierre Hébert. Ostertag morphs spoken and sung text into the sounds of the glass, creating a "disappearance" analogous to "a glass human, disappearing in the rain."

Patrons with special needs are asked to call two weeks in advance.

WENDY CLARKE

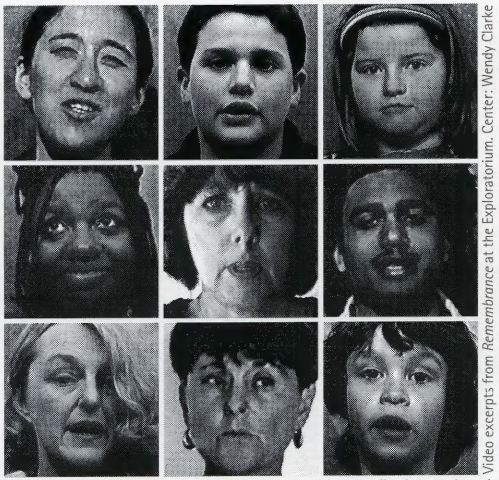

REMEMBRANCE

DECEMBER 1–8 • FREE • LOWER LOBBY AND LECTURE ROOM

Beginning Sunday, December 1, and continuing for one week, visiting artist Wendy Clarke will operate Remembrance, a video installation designed to provide visitors a way of expressing their personal feelings and private stories about how AIDS has affected their lives. In a simple recording booth located in the Walker's lower lobby, participants can record their statements, which will then be screened during the week in the Lecture Room.

December 1 screenings: 12 noon, 2, and 4 pm, Lecture Room. For further screening times and gallery hours, call 375-7622.

There will be an opening-day reception in the Art Lab from 2–4 pm, cohosted by Pillsbury Neighborhood Services. Food and vegan specialties supplied by Cafe Brenda.
